Background and Philosophy

The Plus Dance Program Supplement Teaching Guide was created to support teaching the additional calls for use in Plus Program starting in 2026. The purpose of this supplement is to provide modules and ideas as to possible usage of the newly added calls to the Plus Program.

Less experienced caller-instructors may rely on the modules provided, while more experienced callers may use them as a foundation for developing their own choreography.

A broader range of choreographic figures for each call is available in the Online Teaching Resource.

https://teaching.callerlab.org

The Plus committee recommends downloading and understanding the most up to date Plus Standard Applications document, prior to giving class instruction.

Practice and Sociability

Teaching and learning are essential parts of the program, but they are only part of what makes a square dance class successful. When planning classes and lessons, it is equally important to consider the other elements that contribute to a positive, welcoming, and rewarding learning experience.

Among the most important of these is the value of practice and thoughtfully planned non-instructional tips. Each evening should begin with a review tip that reinforces all calls covered to date. In the same way, the final tip of the night should avoid introducing new material and instead provide an upbeat, encouraging close that emphasizes enjoyment, confidence, and success—so dancers leave smiling and eager to return.

It is also important to remember that most people attend not only to learn, but also to connect with others and enjoy themselves. Every tip and every break offers an opportunity to encourage social interaction, laughter, and a sense of community. These moments do not simply happen on their own; they are fostered through thoughtful planning and an intentionally welcoming class environment.

For that reason, practice dancing, enjoyable non-teaching tips, and opportunities for social interaction should all be treated as intentional parts of any class plan. When included with care, these elements help create a learning experience that is effective, enjoyable, and genuinely welcoming for everyone involved.

Supplement Guide Structure

The sections of the Plus Supplement Teaching guide covering each call are divided into four sub-sections, listed below.

Stand Alone Patter

This section shows modules using the newly added call with only Mainstream calls to support it. This would allow any caller to utilize these modules regardless of when they wanted to insert them into their own program or teaching order.

Teaching Order Patter

This section shows modules using the newly added call with only Mainstream calls and calls that occur prior on the CALLERLAB Plus Program suggested teaching order. For Example: Scoot and Dodge is #7 on the CALLERLAB Plus Teaching Order, so modules in this section will utilize the 50 mainstream calls and calls #1 thru #7 on the Plus Teaching Order.

Teaching Order Extended Applications

This module is in blue and follows the same rules as the previous Teaching Order modules. It is cautioned, however, that this choreography may be considered difficult or challenging to the average dancer. Callers should carefully study the material prior to presenting it to their dancers, to be able to assist where needed. It should also give callers insight into how to stretch their dancers' skills should that be warranted at workshops, etc.

Singing Call

These modules are singing call figures showcasing the newly added calls. It should be noted that singing call figures are always in flux. Depending on many conditions, (environment, sound, dancer skills, caller timing, etc.), some of these figures may need to be modified to fit the circumstances. Always review and examine choreography before simply reading it to your dancers.

Final Thoughts

The Plus Committee hopes that you find the Supplement Teaching Guide beneficial as you begin to integrate the newly added Plus calls into your program. Having a good understanding of the call definitions is essential, and now, with these added examples, as well as what you can obtain online – we look forward to what you and your dancers can achieve.
